This has been a busy week for druggists and Munyon's Bectors. The druggists mail parts of the city declare that the sales of Munyon's Remedies are larger than all other Homeopathic Remedies condained, and the cures are nost surprising. People are only toe mad to report their recovery and to thank the druggists for reconnecteding these wonderful little pellets. Below we puthish what a few of the druggists say. The story is the same all over the country, nothing but praise for Munyon's Improved Homeopathic Remedies.

The season is growing apace, and yet there are no signs of the joint club indoor championship athletic and gymnastic meet which it was promised last season would be one of the features of this winter's

The idea of having such an affair under the combined auspices of all the organizations here having athletic departments was at the time of the suggestion in this collumn most favorably received, but on account of the lateness of the season, action was deferred until this season. The idea is to have clubs who have all-round men, or specials in this or that line of athletics, to come together and arrange a program of competitions for the local championship, either for total club points or individual supremacy. If such an event is to be held, now is the

me to get together and fix a date. Fix it far enough ahead to give the probable entrants pienty of time to prepare and rain for the event.

To make it still more attractive and not have it purely a local event, it should be an open affair, and no doubt a large num-ber of entries from other cities could be obtained and as it has been a long time since we have had visiting competing ath letes, I have no coubt many would be glad to come and enjoy the hospitality for COLDS AND COUGHS which we are noted, and at the same time

The matter of expenses, including cost prizes, could very easily be defrayed out of the receipts for admission of spectators and from entrance fees.

Why rot do comething of this kind, and again make our city prominent in ath-etics, or at least again draw attention to it as one of the athletic centers? We have enough good athletes here in the various lines to make it interesting for all comers. It would at least put our boys on their raettle and cause them to perfect themelves, and carn local honors by defeating other local entries.

Bowling and Basketball Leagues.

The bowling leagues, both major and cond team, rested from their labors, and only the one set, that in the second team ague, was played. The work of the aengerbund team in the big league is one of the surprises of the season, and that it now leads the league, is the result of good, strong bowling, the natural effect of regular practice and the bowlers right proudly wear the reward of meru.

Carrolls and Washington Athletics are dividing honors between them, and from present indications the former, the champions of two seasons, will find it no easy matter to beat the latter out.

The Basketball League teams, too, have taken a week off, and in some instances have put in the time in practice, preparing for the fifteen games remaining to be

The strong play will be the struggle for second place. The surprise of the series is the tenacity with which the W. A. team clings to last place, very much more owing to hard luck than poor play ing, for the team has improved a great deal in its work, and generally puts un a good game. Its present position may be due, also, to the fact that the majority of its games have been against the strongest teams. It will, no doubt, better its pasition when the weaker ones in the schedule

Echoes of the Moore-Raedy boxing contest are still to be heard. While the matority of those who saw the bout believe it to have been an up-and-up affair and are well satisfied with it, there are others who do not hesitate to very emphatically de-clare that it had a very fakey appearance. That Moore holds the first place in th third row of fighters in his class in this country can hardly be disputed, and those who know his standing in his profession figured that Raedy would surely be an easy mark for him.

But they figured poorly. Moore, it is dition, but Raedy, from the first to the last of the controversy, made a showing that astonished even his most ardent admirers, and they are now indulging in some extravagant and unwise talk.

In fact, they are now praising Pat as second to none of the middle-weights, and are on a fair way to get him into serious unpleasantness if they back their expressed belief with money. Pat bears with mod esty the flattery beaped upon him.

in waiting for the little Frenchman, which brought forth the enthusiastic applause of the spectators.

Shortly after this mishap, Forster, in making the turn at the south bank, was crowded and narrowly escaped going into the audience. As it was his wheel was masted against a post and he was thrown with great violence.

Nothing daunted, however, the nervy rider speedily got another machine and was soon in full pursuit of the bunch, which had gained a lap on him.

They Settled Down.

From this point until half an hour be-fore the finish of the ruce the men settled down to a steady pace, which was only varied by an occasional change of the leading pacemaker. Just before 10 o'clock Aslanger sported for the first time, but he was speedily overtaken by little Hunter and the bunch, who shortly commenced a gallant sprint on his own account.

The popular rider was going like the wind, and the applause, urging on the flyng figure, was deafening. He had gained a lap when that incomparable sprinter. Maddox, let out a wonderred burst of speed, which finally cot down the little Frenchman's lead, and later the gap was closed up entirely.

This effort was the forerunner of the concluding struggle which the audience had been anticipating with such eager increst. Everybody was on the qui vive for he attempt of Maddock to cut down those two laps advantage of the "Flying Dutch-man," nor were they disappointed. At the flash of the first pistol the great sprinter shot from the bunch like an arrow from the bow. Every muscle of his lithe, graceful body was tense and strained in his magnificent effort to cut down the lend of the powerful German, who had held it so persistently for five days.

Exciting Finish.

Half a lap back of the flying Jerseyman was his rival, bending every sinew of his brawny body to keep his hard-carned chance of victory. Lap after lap the beautiful sprint continued and Maddox .was slowly but surely creeping alead. But the sport came too late. When his wheel had inpped the rear men of the banch and he was more than three-quarters of a Claude Given is again playing his old lap ahead of the "Flying Dutchman" the second crack of the pistol sounded and the Next to the interest aroused by Maddox's splendid finish was the contest between Lawson and Hunter for fourth place. Both had precisely the a me score and it was known that the man who could get in the aprint at the proper time wo win.

The riders crossed the line in the following order: Forster, Ashinger, Mamiox, Lawson, Hunter, and Waller. It was a most exciting and spectacular finish, and the applause of the spectators showed how keenly they appreciated it. Each rider received an ovation as he left the track, and Lawson was carried bodily to his dressifg-room by an enthu-slastic number of admirers, while Hunter and the various other riders received like treatment.

Teddy Hale commenced the exhibitions by going a mile. He was followed by Baid, who attempted to howerth his quartermile record of 28 2.5 seconds. This he did in beautiful style, cutting it down to 27 1-5.

Linton Breaks His Record.

Tom Linton then went against his ile unpaced record, and, although it seemed almost a human impossibility to put the figures lower than they already were, this marvelous rider succeeded in establishthe record at 2:11. Every record which he nas gone against during the past week was owered by a good margin.

Pred Schade went a quarter of a mile in 32 1-2 seconds, lowering the record, made by Fred Sims on Wednesday evening. This performance brought to a close the nost notable week of racing events which Washington has ever seen.

Miss Davidson belongs to the remarkable family of which so much has been heard in skating and cycling circles, John and Harley Davidson, the skaters and bicycle lilers, being her brothers, and Mabel Davidson, who is so kindly remembered by the people of Washington, her sister.

This is Miss Fannie Davidson's second appearance in this country as a skater, and it is confidently believed that she will speedily be made as great a favorite as was her sister Mabel last year. The latter is now fulfilling engagements in London, England, where she is astonishing the Britons with her marvelous skill, and will go from there to Paris.

It is thought by a great many that Miss Fannie Davidson's skating is fully up to that of her sister, Mabel, and she is thought to excel her in more than or way. In one respect Miss Fannie Davidcon certainly goes ahead of her sister; she is prettier, and that is saying a great deal.
